The Arts and Crafts period inspired Martha Reynolds to create this striking design on a shade made from an original Handel mould. The three dimensional design is created by painting inside the shade as well as on its surface and then applying the delicate background which evolves from yellow to pink.

The Artistry of Fenton

Each handcrafted Fenton lamp is born in the fiery furnaces of our plant in Williamstown, West Virginia. Using techniques and tools reminiscent of the rich history of American glassmaking, our talented artisans transform sand, soda ash and lime into beautiful works of art for generations to enjoy. The blower shapes the red hot glass with his breath, the finisher adds a flare and crimp and the decorator creates handpainted works of art which are fired into the glass for permanent brilliance. Each piece reflects the history, excitement and craftsmanship inherent in its creation.
