Family Signature Series

The Fenton heirloom tradition continues in a collection reflecting the history of the family owned Fenton Art Glass Company. From its start as a decorating company in 1905, to its position today as the respected home of handcrafted American glass artistry.

The Fenton heritage is showcased in the Family Signature Series of Limited Edition collectibles; each one is handpicked by a Fenton family member as examples of the glass artisan's and glass decorator's finest work. Frank L. Fenton's pride and enthusiasm for handcrafted glassware carries through the generations of Fenton family members who remain involved in the development and continuation of glass artistry in America.

Numbered and dated 2002, these limited editions will be inscribed with the signature of a Fenton family member who helps carry on the tradition begun in 1905.

Honor Collection Strictly Limited and Numbered

Our 2002 Honor collection is a tribute to former Fenton Chemist Charley Goe who began to develop Rosalene glass for us in the 1960's. Frank M. Fenton was inspired to create a new color that was similar to an antique glass known as Pink Slag, and together with Charley worked on several different formulas before achieving the first breakthrough in 1972. After much refinement a winner emerged and Rosalene was introduced in 1976.

The secret to Rosalene is the pure gold in the formula which enables the glass to become a lovely pink wherever it has been cooled and then reheated in the forming process.

Trailing Floral on Rosalene

Colorful stylized flowers on blush rose are framed in a cascade of heart-shaped leaves and tiny berries in Fenton artist Diane Gessel's enticing design.

Baroque Floral on Sunset Overlay

Creamy milk glass is encased in a thin layer of Sunset to create a new sensation. Sunset Overlay, a fresh twist on a classic color. Inspired by country mornings in the early spring, designer Frances Burton created a swirl of flowers in winterberry cream and green to bring out the beauty and dimension of this delicate color.

Sunset Stretch

The ever changing hues of sunset . . . from peachy-pink and orange blush to the beige-gold of twilight . . . all captured forever. Like a sunset, the shades vary and each handcrafted piece is unique. A similar color was first introduced in the mid 1920's as a stretch glass treatment. A special blend of metallic salts is sprayed on the hot glass before the piece is reheated and flared to its final shape. As the finisher flares the glass, it stretches the metal coating, resulting in the captivating "stretch" look.

Lacy, feminine and just a bit saucy, that's Enchantment by Kim Planché. A pastel canvas of Blue Topaz is sanded to a soft sheen and touched with a ring of Cloud White. Kim's signature rose buds rest against a white tablecloth decoration embellished with full enamel scrolls and iridescent pearls for an effect of breathless allure.

Robin Spindler

Robin Spindler invites you to visit a Magical Meadow where graceful horses graze in splendor under silvery trees. Pure silver in the Favrene glass formula achieves a mystical gleam, and the sand-carved design gives way to a rich Cobalt Blue, highlighting the beauty of each stallion. This sandcarved design is a first from Robin.

Amethyst Carnival

Carnival glass – a Fenton Art Glass signature look since 1907, all the rage in the revival of Carnival in the 1970's and back to stay as a classic. A deep shade of amethyst glass played a vital role in the resurgence, with a complex crafting process starting with a spray of metallic salts while the glass is still hot. As more spray is applied to the glass, a spectacular rainbow of color emerges and Carnival glass is born. Fenton artist Robin Spindler designed a pattern of sweeping white blossoms that adds appeal to this classic look.

GLASS Messenger

2002 Subscriber Exclusives

New for 2002 . . . two subscriber exclusives! Subscribers to the Glass Messenger now have the opportunity to select from two exclusive pieces for 2002 - a timeless ginger jar and a new koi fish - both in historic Sunset, a shade similar to a color first introduced in the mid 1920's as a stretch glass treatment. The addition of selenium to the formula causes the color to shade from light pink to a pale sienna color.

Long the color of royalty, violet remains an ideal color for home décor. Contrast violet with green for a hot new look, blend with blue for a relaxing moment or couple with pink for a breath of spring. And what could be lovelier than a display of violet with coordinates from the Lavender Petals collection? (See page 24)

New this year in Violet is the Spanish Lace fairy lamp and a spectacular Rose lamp, along with a Button & Arch pitcher and basket. Display them together for a powerful color statement.

The Artistry of Fenton

Dreamy Violets

The first rays of the morning sun cast a warming glow as graceful violet petals slowly open in hues of lilac, blue and pink. This new design from Kim Plauché features delicate sprays of violets so dreamy they look as if a watercolor painting came to life.

Blushed pink edges and violet pinstriping frame the design and set off the warmth of the yellow blush that completes the look.

White Poppies on Cranberry

Delicate white poppies rest on a field of rich Cranberry glass in Kim Plauché's stunning creation, replete with highlights of 22k gold. A stylized ribbon of dried leaves and stems frames the crisp white flowers with accents of deep purple and pink... a wonderful updating of a Fenton classic.

Cranberry

Cranberry – the classic Fenton color. The signature cranberry is created from pure gold in the batch, which is then wrapped in a layer of crystal glass. Selected pieces are blown in an optic mould to create a pattern before blowing to the final shape.

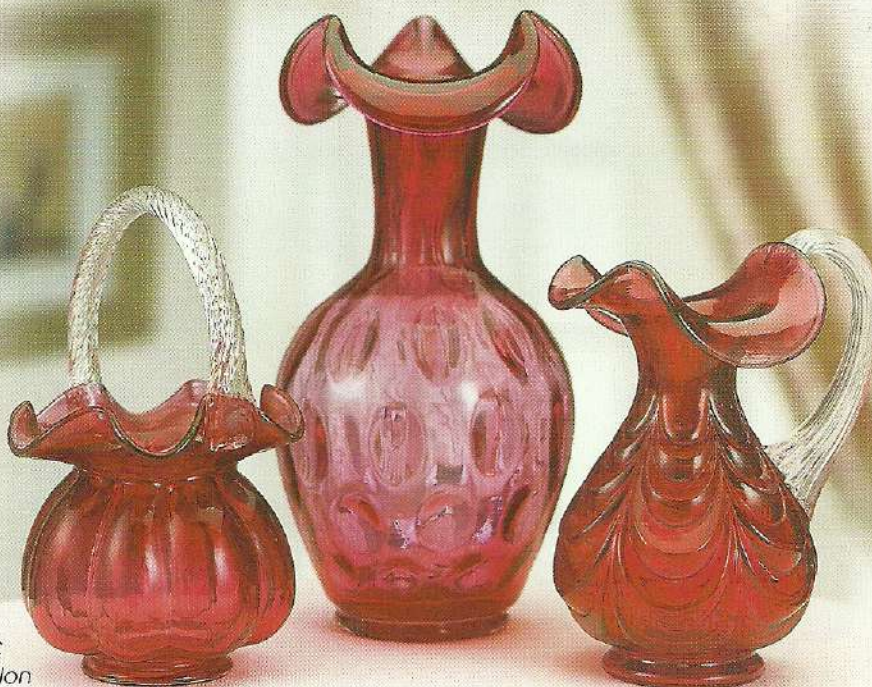

Artfully handled by up to 25 skilled craftsmen, each cranberry piece is tribute to teamwork, talent and dedication...found in America only at Fenton Art Glass.

Handblown Cranberry Lamps

An American classic, Fenton Cranberry lamps cast a warm glow over hearth and home.

The student and double ball lamps are timeless silhouettes, perfect for décor statements from traditional to contemporary.

The blocker blows the first air bubble into a gob of molten glass.

A finished piece is removed from the mould after it has been blown. The bubble on top is called the "overblow." This is scraped off and the edge is reheated before a flare or crimp is created.

Fenton's vintage styling has a "shabby chic" charm that is just right for more relaxed lifestyles.

The 22k gold in Cranberry glass adds luster and rich dimension and is spectacular when illuminated. Light a Cranberry lamp, sit back and enjoy.

Cranberry Opalescent Hobnail

Add a touch of history to your home with a Fenton favorite, the traditional hobnail pattern in Cranberry Opalescent glass. Handcrafted only in America by the skilled craftsmen of Fenton Art Glass, each piece starts with a batch of gold ruby glass and is covered with French Opalescent. The timeless Hobnail mould design is truly an American work of art.

Midnight Safari, Tropical Forest and Tiger Lily

Explore the exotic and add adventure to the Fenton experience. Sleek leopards and sultry tigers stalk the midnight jungle amidst rich tropical ferns and exotic flowers in a sophisticated medley of flora and fauna. The flash of color on a field of black adds an exotic and elegant touch to any décor.

Our reverse-painted lamp sheds a sultry glow to create an exotic mood. The harp has been enlarged to hold a larger candelabra bulb.

Inspirations

Fireflies dance about in the evening sky to remind us that "God's light . . . is everywhere," a message of faith and caring to young and old alike. The artistry of Fenton designer Robin Spindler comes to life in Violet glass hand-painted with a message gently reminding you of what is truly important. A thoughtful gift and a lovely accent for any home, the Fairy Light casts a soft glow on a night table for prayers.

The Language of Love

Sentimental Victorians shared their deepest feelings in a special language of flowers. Each flower had its own meaning in this delicate art of communication.

A young man would send a bouquet of jonquils if he desired "a return of affection." This lady might respond with snowdrops indicating "hope," or red tulips "declaring love."
