1994 Easter Collection

Bring Springtime Indoors!

Plum Slag, Sea Mist Slag and handpainted Bunny Box.

A springtime marriage of Fenton colors swirled together in the molten glass . . . in covered nests . . . and precious miniatures. Don't "fowl up" on this special grouping. The results will be eggstatic eggzuberance!

Crested Easter Baskets

French Opalescent "Crested" and "Handled" Baskets . . .

What a combination! Hobnail baskets with colors of Easter & Spring. Skillfully applied "rings and handles." For the basket collector or someone to add that special feeling to their home. Only from Fenton.

A colored edge of molten glass is spun on each piece.

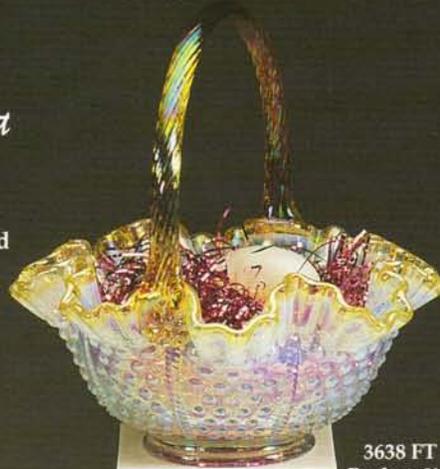

The handler deftly applies a ribbon of molten glass for the handle.

Puddle Parade

Welcome to Puddle Junction, a town of fine feathered friends. Life here is simple and traditions are held dear. A favorite tradition is the annual Puddle Parade which celebrates the first big rainfall each Spring.

Gathered on the town square, our leading citizens are ready to march:

"Miss Daphne"

Miss Daphne is Puddle Junction's leading lady. She has organized the Puddle Parade for 40 years. Although she causes quite a flap, her Quack is worse than her bite.

"Ditsy"

Ditsy knows her place - right on Miss Daphne's tail feathers. Although always trying to help, Ditsy's not so great with secrets. She's too quick to quack. Ditsy only seems flighty; she'd never duck a friend.

"Delbert"

Quick to salute in his sailor suit, Delbert still manages to ruffle the feathers of Miss Daphne - whenever he gets a chance. Delbert hopes to study medicine because he doesn't want to become a quack.

"Daffodil"

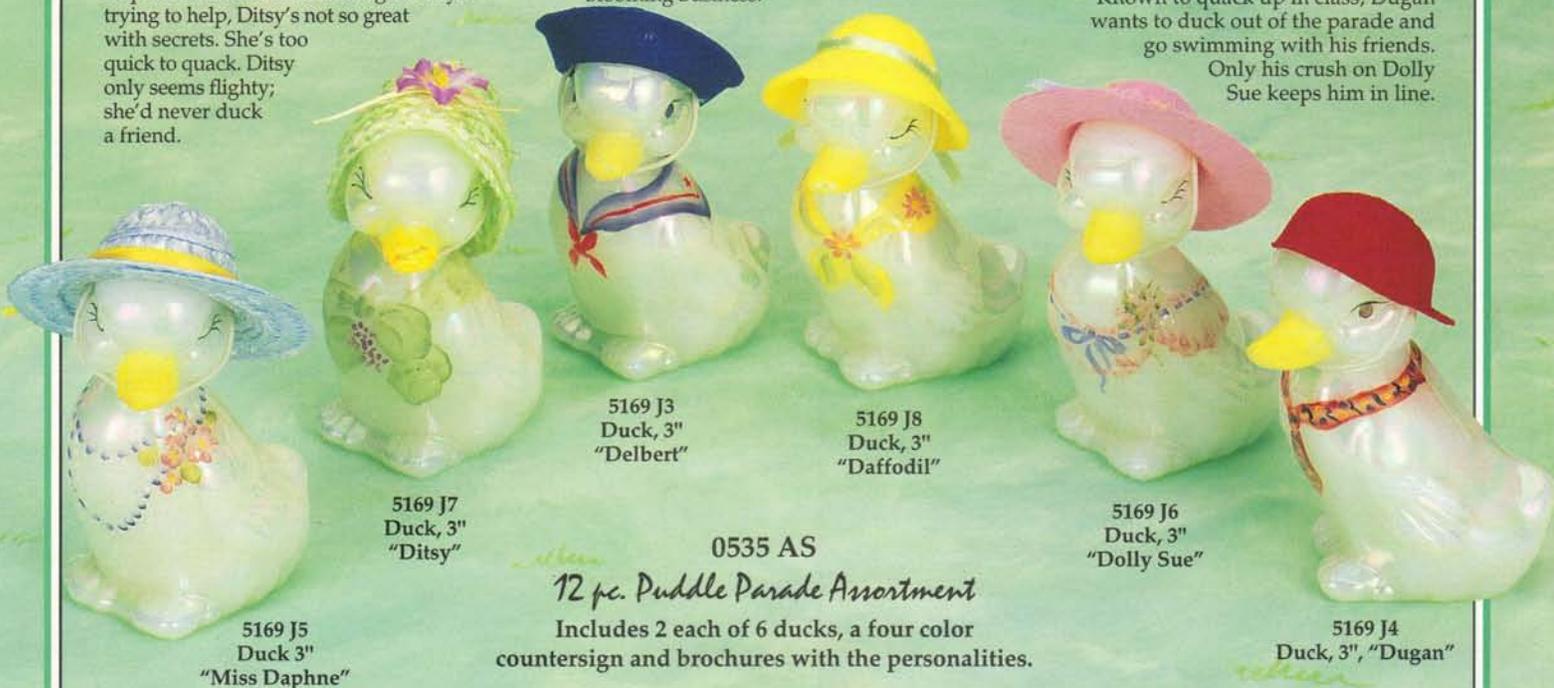

Daffodil is the town matchmaker, always working to see that birds of a feather get together. She's a romantic soul who spends hours tending flowers. Be it roses or romances, our Daffodil is in the Blooming Business.

"Dolly Sue"

With a swing of her tail feathers and dip of her bonnet, Dolly Sue has no trouble catching Dugan's eye. Though this pretty Southern Belle has been known to duck a few drakes, she's a loyal buddy to her girlfriends.

"Dugan"

Known to quack up in class, Dugan wants to duck out of the parade and go swimming with his friends. Only his crush on Dolly Sue keeps him in line.
