Family Signature Series

A popular Fenton Family tradition continues into the next century. These pieces reflect the historic and unique story of the Fenton Art Glass Company . . . from its beginning as a decorating company in 1905 into one of the most popular and respected handmade glass companies in America.

The Fenton heritage is showcased in the Family Signature Series of Limited Edition collectibles. Handpicked by members of the Fenton Family, the selected pieces reflect the glass artisan's and glass decorator's finest work. Frank L. Fenton's pride and enthusiasm for handmade glassware continues through the generations of Fenton family members who are involved in the development of glass artistry.

Numbered and dated 2001, these limited editions will be inscribed with the signature of a member of the Fenton family who helps carry on the tradition begun in 1905.

Honor Collection Strictly Limited and Numbered

This very select numbered Honor Collection is to pay homage to the pioneering spirit of the great craftsmen and chemists who developed unique glass colors. Their desire to create wonderful artistic colors overcame impossible difficulties to give the world a new form of art. Our gratitude and admiration go to Joseph Lock (Amberina), Frederick Shirley (Burmese), L.C. Tiffany (Favrile), Harry Northwood (Pink Slag - Rosalene) and Frank L. Fenton (Carnival) and other inspired glass visionaries.

Purple Passion Flower on Blue Burmese

Powder blue and precious gold in the batch combine to make Blue Burmese a priceless work of art. A pure gold allows the piece to achieve its lovely rose shading during the reheating process. A wistful hummingbird hovers over a bed of purple passion flowers in this original design by Robin Spindler. The pitcher mould was originally used to produce a vase during 1970.

Symphony on Favrile

An elegant color containing a shimmer of silver tones. First developed by L.C. Tiffany as Blue Favrile, this beautifully refined color requires a high degree of harmony throughout the entire production process in order to achieve its rich tone. The piece will move through several color hues when a fine mist of metallic salts is applied - reaching the desired shade of deep blue during the final finishing stage. Stacy Williams has designed a lovely floral vine of blossoms that appear to entwine each piece.

Lily Trail on Topaz Opalescent

Trumpet-shaped petals explode in the bright yellow sunshine as a dragonfly rests on a hanging vine. Colors of soft pink shade the delicate lily petals as they float in a gentle breeze. Stacy Williams created this appealing new design that further complements our Topaz pieces edged in black.

Topaz Opalescent

A revival of the popular "Vaseline Glass" from the 1920's, Topaz has been a mainstay with our loyal collectors for a number of years. The addition of uranium in the glass formula gives this classic color its yellow hue which glows with a lively fluorescence when placed under black light. The straight rib optic and iridized finish add interest to these handmade creations.

Designer Bell Series

Our award-winning team of designers continues to amaze us with their high level of artistic talent and imagination. On an on-going basis, they continue to incorporate new design methods and colors into an assortment of original works of art for Fenton. This year's line of Limited Edition bells is no exception as it displays the exceptional talent of each designer.

Martha Reynolds

Handpainted tropical plants provide a camouflage for these masters of the animal kingdom as they prey beneath the midnight sky. Only the golden eyes of the black panther can be seen as he peers from within the depths of the jungle. A turban of leopard and zebra prints decorates the handle of this one-of-a-kind bell.

A luminous archway of 22k gold is adorned with an everlasting vine of delicate white rosebuds and lilac blossoms. Frances layered heavy enamel paints to achieve the lush white tone of each rose petal. The Milk glass ring draws the eye to the peaceful Violet surroundings of this striking bell.

Vibrant violet wings grace this striking butterfly as it hovers above a field of spring blossoms and blackberries. The iridized finish on the Pink Chiffon Opalescent background intensifies the design in addition to the 22k gold highlights found on the butterfly's wings and the leaf veins.

Red Carnival

Red Carnival, one of Fenton's original iridescent hues, is the most sought after color by carnival glass collectors. Reheating the glass, also referred to as "striking", can create an unusual amberina effect in some pieces. Frances Burton's stylish Damask Rose design further beautifies this brilliant color. Debuting in 1996, this enduring pattern of muted Damask Roses continues to bring elegance to a timeless line of cherished keepsakes.

The brilliance of Royal Purple is showcased in this delicate pitcher selected exclusively for subscribers of the Glass Messenger. The rich Royal Purple color is achieved through the use of Cobalt Blue gathered over gold Ruby. These two beautiful colors, when encased and skillfully blown together, combine to create a deep purple color befitting royalty. Martha Reynolds developed a vision of deep violet peonies that truly complements the Royal Purple background. A high ribbed and twisted crystal handle provides the perfect finishing touch to this elegant piece of collectible art glass.

Spring Splendor on Pink Chiffon

The blooming of the perennial crocus is the first indication that spring is just around the corner. Martha Reynolds captured the simplicity of this delicate field of white spring flowers accented with a beige checkerboard in the background. Iridescent paint, applied with an airbrush, creates a gauze effect that is reminiscent of morning dew. This delightful new treatment has a texture you can feel.

The Blower rolls and elongates the molten glass before he drops it into and blows it into the mould located at his feet.

A Blocker rolls a gob of molten glass in soapy water to ready the glass for the final forming mould.

Cobalt

Bold and vibrant shades of deep Cobalt are desired by men and women alike. Derived from a mixture of cobalt oxide and manganese, this classic color has remained a favorite throughout the years. Its simple elegance is showcased in a variety of new pieces ranging from a paneled vase to a delicate perfume bottle.

A finished piece is removed from the mould after it has been blown. The bubble on top is called an overblow. This is scraped off the top, then the edge is reheated and a flare or crimp is added.

White Poppies on Cranberry

Rich Cranberry glass is further beautified with Kim Plauché's design of traditional white poppies. Blends of deep purple and pink surround the center of the main flower - accented in 22k gold highlights. A ribbon of dried leaves and stems peek around the flowers to give this beautiful design a stylized appearance.

A Fenton artist layers white and colored paint on for a dimensional floral.

This collectible color is created from pure gold in the batch, which is then wrapped in a layer of crystal glass. Each piece is blown through the various optic moulds to conform to a particular shape and pattern. Teamwork is crucial in the creation of cranberry glass... each piece will be handled by at least 25 skilled craftsmen.

Rose Garden

Frances Burton's delicate rosebud design has become one of Fenton's most popular handpainted designs. Blushing pink edges and pinstriping surround tiny rosebuds to create the perfect balance of color and precision in each and every piece. A striking trumpet vase and charming doll are among the new stars of this stylish grouping.

Cranberry Opalescent

Our love affair with Cranberry glass continues into the 21st century. To create these superb pieces, a batch of gold Ruby is covered with French Opalescent as its placed into the mould. Once cooled, the piece is then reheated as the coolest portions turn white. The ageless Hobnail mould design adds further collectibility to these exceptional works of art.

The Medieval Legend of the Gift of Happiness

Knights of Yore returned from the Crusades bearing beautifully decorated shoes for their loved ones. Because the slippers had magical powers to ward off evil and bring happiness, they were given as tokens of the highest esteem to very special people. Fenton revives this lovely tradition with the Secret Slipper. Each handpainted slipper comes gift boxed with the written legend included.

Sentimental Victorians shared their deepest feelings in the special language of flowers. Each flower had its own meaning in this delicate art of communication. A young man would send a bouquet of jonquils if he desired "a return of affection." The lady might respond with snowdrops indicating "hope", or red tulips "declaring love."

The Shepherds...

The final installment in the Fenton Nativity Collection, our Shepherd Set, is the featured "First Edition" for 2000 in the Nativity Collection. The three new figurines were sculpted by Jon Saffell and the decoration designed by Ruth Spindler to complete the 1 piece Fenton Nativity.

Each Shepherd Set is authenticated with the words "First Edition" to sign! They were produced in 2000.
