Cranberry Opalescent Heart Optic

Freshened for Spring 1998, Fenton's Heart Optic Cranberry Opalescent is the essence of the craftsman's artistry in layering and shaping molten glass.

Cranberry Opalescent is made up of two distinct layers of glass, Gold Ruby and French Opalescent. Crisp white optic patterns such as the heart or diamonds were prevalent during the 1800's... only Fenton creates this special glass in the 1990's.

Mary Gregory

Once again, Fenton produces fresh, new shapes in prized Cranberry glass, onto which artists handpaint the detailed and collectible Mary Gregory-style figures - characterized by the shading and raised buttons, bows and edgings created with white enamel paints. Beautifully designed by Martha Reynolds.

For 1998, Fenton's most popular pitcher graces this collection, along with a stunning hexagonal basket, and our perfume bottle with a new crystal stopper. The floral pattern on this unique stopper flows down onto the perfume bottle, an uninterrupted expression of design.

Rosebuds on Rosalene

Prized by collectors for its lovely white-to-rose shading and its formula containing pure gold, Fenton's Rosalene takes center stage for Spring 1998. Four intricate collectibles capture lots of attention and will create stunning displays in gift shops -- and on Fenton collectors' vanities. Designed by Robin Spindler.

The vase, perfume bottle and puff box utilize moulds created in the '50's... all with graceful swirls.

Miniatures

Miniatures, especially Fenton hand-made glass miniatures, have been highly prized and sought-after for many years.

For Spring 1998, Fenton offers three sets for the miniature collector -- all created by joining our unique combination of Champagne Satin rung with Plum and iridized.

These miniature sets include a two piece Epergne, a five piece Pitcher and Tumbler set and a five piece Punchbowl and cup set with 4 hooks. Extra tumblers and cups are available to enlarge your collection.

Romance Collection - Wedding Gifts Created by Hand.

Handpainted roses float on a cloud of shimmering glass to create a gift as special as the occasion it celebrates - this beautiful collection is perfect for wedding gifts or to celebrate that very special anniversary.

Kim Plauche' designed romantic roses on French Opalescent glass that has been iridized and reheated to a soft lustre. She added sparkling "ice" crystals to highlight features on the figurines.

Empress Rose and Handpainted Trellis

Designed to coordinate with our handpainted "Trellis" pattern which we've freshened with four new items

Fenton's glass chemists were given the task of making our number-one color even better -- our newest pink tone is clearer and more colorful, making it the perfect accent for the pure pinks in today's home furnishings market -- and it proves less affected by the fluorescent lighting found in many gift shops.
