An achievement in glass technology! Gold and Uranium are used to create the most treasured of collectors' colors. Mouth blown beauty that is presented by the third generation of Fenton management and glass artists to celebrate the 85th Anniversary of The Fenton Art Glass Co., founded in 1905. These Burmese pieces will be made only in 1990. Each will bear the wording: "FENTON — 85th ANNIVERSARY — Artist's signature — 1990"

The tradition continues.

Cranberry Opaline

Unique glassmaking artistry combines an inner layer of gold ruby with an outer layer of striking opaline. Skillfully fired to blend these two exotic glasses in creating another page in Fenton's book of America's Finest Glass in Color.

Cased Jade Opaline

Two layers of glass must first be matched by the chemist to be sure that the coefficients of expansion are compatible. Then a "core" of jade glass is covered by a layer of opaline and fired to just the right moment before being formed by the Fenton craftsmen. Each piece is individually handmade and will vary slightly in shape and hue.

Jade Opaline

The soft hue has been developed to coordinate with Christine Victoria's "Vintage". Display together for the complete look and to attract maximum sales potential. Today's decorator colors in upholstery, carpets, drapery and wall-covering will blend beautifully with Jade Opaline. Two techniques combine in producing cased handblown and hand-pressed creations. Only from Fenton.
