Cranberry

Truly the most unique of glassmaking accomplishments! Fenton Cranberry begins with a small gob of molten glass, made with pure gold, gathered on the end of a hollow blow pipe. It is then encased with a layer of crystal glass and mouth-blown. Many of the pieces are first blown in an optic mould, to give them the subtle pattern, and then blown into a final forming mould. Each piece is then reheated and finished with the hand crimping and handling. Working together as a team, it takes up to 26 skilled craftsmen to make a basket or pitcher!
