Violets on Rosalene

Rosalene glass requires real gold in the formula to achieve its beautiful rosy blush. This enchanting collection of limited edition handpainted pieces features several original designs by Jon Saffell, including his new butterfly. The double-heart trinket box is musical and plays "My Heart Will Go On" - the theme from "Titanic."

Mary Gregory

Highly collectible Mary Gregory handpainted glass features the addition of Fenton's first Mary Gregory lamp. A little girl chasing a butterfly is added to the graceful pitcher - while a new "fishing boy" pattern graces the basket and vase shapes. Talented Fenton artists use a distinctive shading of white enamel paint to bring us these works of art on Cranberry.

Miniature Table Set

Harking back to the gracious dining of our grandparents, Fenton offers a miniature table set. The set features a tray - which is signed by the artist and numbered - along with a covered sugar container, a creamer, a spooner and a covered butter holder. French Opalescent glass forms the foundation for this lovely English Daisy pattern designed by Kim Plauche.

Butterfly Jewelry

Perfect for Spring, this brand new necklace and brooch are stunning in soft Champagne Satin glass. The stylized butterfly was sculpted by Fenton designer Jon Saffell and the jewelry settings were designed by Margarita de Santis. A handpainted trinket box completes the set. A Fenton collector will be delighted with this lovely set. Each pendant will be numbered.

Champagne Satin

Four new shapes freshen romantic Champagne Satin glass for Spring (*). Smooth as silk, each piece is the result of additional steps in the glassmaking process. After the piece is pressed, it is allowed to cool slightly before being pressed, it is then sprayed with a metallic solution and returned to the fire to create a satin lustre on the iridescent coating.

Open Swan

A little history with a lot of function. The mould for this pretty accent piece was made by Northwood Glass Company in the early 1900's. Fenton acquired the mould from them in 1926. Great for trinkets, potpourri, bath beads or soaps.

Periwinkle on Blue Burmese

The first offering of Blue Burmese in the Fenton line since 1984! This soft color was first made in the 1800's by the Mt. Washington Glass Company. Called Mt. Washington Peachblow at that time, this historic formula requires pure gold to create its lovely rose shading. Fenton is proud to again offer this highly collectible color for 1999.
