Pansies on Cranberry

Decoration is rare on Cranberry glass, and the Pansies pattern has proven its staying power with continued high demand. The Pansies decorating process requires several painting steps, each followed by a trip through the lehr to make the decoration permanent. Layers of paint add texture to the surface of these fantastic Fenton collectibles.

Cranberry

Fenton's most popular glass, Cranberry epitomizes the art of cased glass. Gold Ruby glass, produced with pure gold in the formula, is encased in a layer of crystal glass, then blown into various "spot" moulds to create an optic pattern specifically chosen to show off each particular shape, or to unify an offering.

A team of over 25 skilled craftsmen is needed to create a Cranberry basket or pitcher, working together to proudly produce America's finest handmade glass. Fenton Cranberry - a glass you'll be proud to display, or give to that very special someone.

Cranberry glass begins with long Ruby Rolls containing gold which are made and heated in ovens for approximately 12 hours. A small bud is then snipped off of the roll and attached to the end of a hollow blow pipe. It is smoothed and shaped to give it a uniform shape for even distribution before the layer of sparkling crystal is added and then blown into the final forming mould. Truly the most unique of glassmaking accomplishments!

Handblown Fenton Lamps

Each handblown Fenton item is born in the fiery furnaces of our plant in Williamstown, West Virginia. Using techniques and tools reminiscent of the rich history of American glassmaking, our talented artisans transform sand, soda ash and lime into beautiful works of art for generations to enjoy.

Blower

The blower shapes the red hot glass with his breath, the finisher adds a flare and crimp and the decorator creates handpainted works of art which are fired into the glass for permanent brilliance. Each piece reflects the history, excitement and craftsmanship inherent in its creation.

Rose Garden

One of Fenton's most popular handpainted decorations, "Rose Garden" maintains an unparalleled balance of design. The blushing and pinstriping offset the delicate roses to perfection and the use of color enhances the carefully-chosen shapes in this top-selling pattern.

The Medieval Legend of the Gift of Happiness

Knights of Yore returned from the Crusades bearing beautifully decorated shoes for their loved ones. Because the slippers had magical powers to ward off evil and bring great happiness, they were given as tokens of the highest esteem to very special people. Fenton revives this lovely tradition with the Secret Slipper. Each is handpainted and comes gift boxed with the written legend included.

Sentimental Victorians shared their deepest feelings in a special language of flowers. Each known flower had its own meaning in this delicate art of communication. A young man would send a bouquet of jonquills if he desired "a return of affection." The lady might respond with snowdrops indicating "hope," or red tulips "declaring love."

"The Language of Love" revives this beautiful tradition in a loving anniversary message. Each of the flowers entwine to tell a story:

"The rose represents Love. Blue Violets mean Faithfulness while the Dogwood reflects the durability of a wonderful marriage. The Forget-me-nots remind us that True Love is everlasting."

"This wreath of love was created to represent the enduring strength in your marriage and is given to celebrate the day you were wed."

The newly constructed
Fenton factory - 1907

The Fenton Art Glass Company was founded in 1905 by Frank L. Fenton and his brother John, in an old glass factory building in Martins Ferry, Ohio. Here, they painted decorations on glass blanks made by other firms. The Fentons had trouble getting the glass they wanted when they wanted it, and soon decided to produce their own. The first glass from the Fenton factory in Williamstown, WV, was made on January 2, 1907.

An artistic and creative man, F.L. Fenton strove to develop new and unusual colors and treatments to keep Fenton in the forefront of the handmade glass industry. During the '30's and '40's, Fenton Art Glass struggled to survive the Great Depression and war shortages. Fenton included production of mixing bowls and orange juice reamers to keep people working, but did not hold back on developing beautiful new colors.

Frank Leslie Fenton,
Company Founder

In 1948, the top three members of Fenton's original management died - leaving brothers Frank M. Fenton (age 33) and Wilmer C. "Bill" Fenton (age 25) to run the company as President and Vice-President respectively. The next five years were rough ones, but then milk glass began to sell all over the country - hobnail milk glass became the company's bread-and-butter line for many years.

In February 1986, leadership of Fenton Art Glass passed to the third generation with George W. Fenton becoming President. Bill Fenton is Chairman of the Board, and Frank Fenton is retired, but both are at work every day as advisors, still very much involved in the company. F.L. Fenton's enthusiasm and pride have been carried down through the second, third and fourth generations of the Fenton family. Today there are 12 Fenton family members working together to manage The Fenton Art Glass Company. The company is the largest producer of handmade colored glass in the United States.
