Presenting the Artistry of Fenton Art Glass

Autumn Morn

Memories of a perfect fall morning inspired Frances Burton to create the serenity of "Autumn Morn." A scenic country church with its perfect spire and a nearby shaded woodland stream enhance the blushing beauty of Burmese glass. Pure gold in the formula causes a pink glow to emerge from the creamy yellow background, creating a perfect palette for the golden tones of fall. Frances enhanced the scene with sparkling glass highlights that dance in sunlight.

Verlys Birds Vase

Stacy Williams was inspired by the touching beauty of two birds gracing a mould created by Verlys of France in a simple Asian design. In the 1930s, Verlys created moulds that are now recognized for timeless, elegant designs that appeal to both traditional and contemporary settings. The velvet surface of Aubergine is handpainted with cherry blossoms and sleek bamboo to enhance the Asian theme. Highlights in gold glimmer on the feathers of the birds, further emphasizing the depth of the pattern.

Serenity

Our "Serenity" guest set provides a special welcome to friends invited for the night. Robin Spindler has captured the essence of peace and serenity as guests enjoy warm hospitality. Her contemporary field flower embraces the Rosalene pitcher, and a graceful butterfly alights on the upturned cup. Soft greens, browns and rich berry colors enhance the rosy glow of Rosalene.

Mulberry Medley

The elusive Mulberry color returns in all its shaded beauty. A favorite canvas for Kim Barley, Mulberry emerges when a small amount of gold ruby glass is covered with azure blue and carefully blown, shading smoothly from magenta to blue. Each vase will vary, just as the changing colors of ripening mulberries. Kim designed a colorful wild anemone growing amidst 22k golden berries. A gold dragonfly with Swarovski stones swoops in to experience the heady aroma of a newly opened bud.

Sunflower on Plated Amberina

A dimensional sunflower graces this historic glass treatment. Deep ruby glass is layered over a core of Milk Glass, and the ribbed pattern reveals vertical stripes in an amberina glow to mimic the intense summer heat so loved by sunflowers. Stacy Williams ennobles the grandest daisy of all with stylized strokes of raised white enamel to create an eye popping work of art.

Freedom Soars

Inspired by our nation's powerful symbol of freedom and the towering mountains and firs of the Northwest, designer Robin Spindler created "Freedom Soars." The stately oval vase showcases the shimmering luster and matte sheen of Favrene glass as well as the artistic handpainted highlights of the eagle and surrounding habitat. With careful reheating during production, pure silver rises to the glass surface, bathing it in luster to create a unique color that is later sandcarved to reveal cobalt blue.

Mosaic Vase

A brand new shape continues the Mosaic art glass tradition begun at Fenton in the 1920s. The contemporary look is on trend for today's styles and is perfectly suited to the dramatic black glass layered with brightly colored chips. The glassmakers' artistry is heightened with the addition of thin threading strung randomly over the surface of the vase before it receives a mist of satin luster.

Crayons Egg

Showcase Dealer Exclusive

Another creation from master glass artisan Dave Fetty complements his amazing Crayons vase. Made with several opaque "crayon" colors swirled through Black glass and covered with pure crystal, this artistic egg will make a stunning paperweight or table ornament. Seven colors—including brown, orange, yellow, two shades of green and two different reds—combine in ever changing blends to make this unique objet d'art for the home or office of discriminating collectors. Each egg is individually handblown and stamped with Dave Fetty's special logo.

Aubergine

The regal look of our newest color, Aubergine, is just right for today's styles in home decor. Rich purple tones add a note of elegance to any room. Since its introduction in early 2006, Aubergine has quickly emerged as a new favorite color among many of those who love Fenton glass.

Vision on Aubergine

Designer Stacy Williams used multiple layers of sheer color to develop remarkable shading in this simple, yet elegant handpainted motif. Silky leaves float in a soft breeze, and a pink Kousa dogwood pod adds a decidedly striking touch. It's truly a "vision" to behold.
